 - (f) in addition to the information referred to in (e) above, the Exchange may cause to be published any other relevant information which may relate to the market price of any security.

Rule - 401

Delisting Criteria

- (1) The aim of the Trinidad and Tobago Stock Exchange is to provide the foremost auction market for securities of well established companies in which there is a broad public interest and ownership. Securities admitted to the official list may be suspended from dealings or removed from the list at any time. Prior to the delisting of any security, the Exchange shall make an appraisal of, and determine, the suitability for continued listing in light of all the pertinent facts whenever it deems such action appropriate. The grounds under which a company's security may be delisted includes, but are not limited to the following:
 - (a) failure of a company to make timely adequate and accurate disclosures of information to its shareholders and the investing public;
 - (b) failure to observe good accounting practices in reporting of earnings and financial position;
 - (c) conduct inconsistent with just and equitable principles of trade;
 - (d) unsatisfactory financial condition or operating results;
 - (e) inability to meet current debt obligations or to adequately finance operations;
 - (f) abnormally low selling price or volume of trading;
 - (g) unwarranted use of company's funds for the repurchase of its equity securities.
 - (g) any other event or condition which may exit or occur that make further dealings and listing of the securities on the Exchange inadvisable or unwarranted in the opinion of the Exchange.
 - (i) When a company falls below any of the criteria enunciated in Rule 401(3), the Exchange may give consideration to any definitive action that a company would propose to take that would bring it in line with original standards.
- (2) Changes that a company might consider or make that would bring it above the delisting criteria but not in line with the original listing standards would normally not be adequate reason to warrant continued listing.
- (3) Where a listed company falls below any of the criteria for delisting, and proposes to effect a combination with an unlisted company in a manner which in the opinion of the Exchange, would result in the acquisition of the listed company by the unlisted company, regardless of which company is the survivor in the combination, the Exchange will not approve the listing of the additional shares arising out of the combination unless the company resulting from the combination meets the original listing requirements of the Exchange in all respects.

- (4) Other criteria which may result in the delisting of a company includes but are not limited to:
- (a) Reductions in Operating Assets and/or scope of operations;
 - (b) Bankruptcy and/or liquidation;
 - (c) Authoritative advice/proof that a security is without value;
 - (d) Registration no longer effective;
 - (e) Proxies are not solicited for all meetings of stockholders;
 - (f) Agreements are violated;
 - (g) Interest coverage of debt securities is inadequate;
 - (h) Failure to meet payment, redeem or retire securities on due dates.

When the Exchange gives consideration to the suspension or delisting of the ordinary shares of a company, it may consider delisting of the ordinary shares of a company, it may consider the appropriateness of the continued listing of other securities of the issuer, whether or not such other securities meet the delisting criteria otherwise applicable to them, and may determine, in light of all the circumstances, to continue such other securities on the list or to suspend and proceed to remove from the list such other securities where it seems to be advisable.

The Exchange may hold a public hearing in connection with its consideration of suspension of a security from dealing.

In the absence of any special circumstances, a security considered by the Exchange to be eligible for continued listing will not be removed from the list upon request or application of the issuer, unless the proposed withdrawal from listing is approved by the security holders at a meeting at which a substantial percentage (66 2/3%) of the outstanding amount of the particular security is represented, without objection to the proposed withdrawal from a substantial number of individual holders of the particular security.

APPENDIX VII Notes for Guidance on the Completion of Liquidity Returns

NOTES FOR GUIDANCE ON THE COMPLETION OF LIQUIDITY RETURNS

1. Member companies should refer to rules 300 and 301, the notes for guidance of member companies relating to these rules issued by the Board, and to the detailed description in Form LM. 2, LM.3 and LM.4.
2. This return is to be completed and submitted quarterly by all member companies. One of the dates selected for the preparation of these figures should coincide with the last date of the company's financial year.
3. The return should be prepared from a trial balance and it will normally be sufficient to use control account totals (provided that these are subject to regular agreement with listing of individual balances) except in those instruments where further detailed analysis of particular items is required, as for example is the case with client balances. Any item for which member companies consider that no appropriate heading is provided should be shown separately on the return together with a suitable description.
4. Explanatory notes of any unusual items should be submitted with the completed return where appropriate.
5. Where there are no amounts appropriate to any particular item in the return or in the supplementary schedule please state "NIL" in the appropriate box.
6. The form which is sent to the Exchange Accountant should be signed. The signatures of two Directors are required in all cases. If the Managing Director also acts as the Finance Director please ensure that a second Director also signs the return.
7. Bank reconciliation should be carried out at the date of the return in respect of all balances with banks, or by reference to the latest bank statement prior to the date of the return.
8. Amounts deposited on behalf of clients which do not form part of the firm's assets, in accordance with the arrangements with the clients concerned, should together with the corresponding rights of the clients to the deposits be entered in the boxes inserted on pages 2 and 3.
9. Any refunds of tax which have been taken into account in calculating the tax provision, should be stated separately with a note as to whether or not the refund has been agreed with the Inland Revenue. If it should be desired to alter the basis upon which provision is made for taxation liabilities, the amount provided should be shown here and the details of the revised basis supplied.
10. This provision should be a reasonable estimate of the eventual taxation liability attributable to the profit available to the member company which has been earned in the period since the last financial year end; a proportion of the annual allowances as appropriate should be used in estimating the provision.
11. The settlement offices box has no current relevance, and is included for future purposes.

STOCK EXCHANGE SETTLEMENT PROCEDURE GUIDELINES

PROCEDURE (1)

Introduction

These procedures set out the issues relating to one side of a securities transaction, namely, the "buy side" and focus on the settlement of funds by Participants arising from Trades executed in accordance with the Rules of the TTCD.

1. In connection with the maintenance of banking records, each Participant is responsible for providing the TTCD with the following: the name of the Commercial Bank, Payment Account Number, and the name of a contact person at the Bank who is authorized to receive documents in relation to the payments to be made by a Participant from funds in the Payment Account.
2. For the purposes of guaranteeing settlement of transactions, each Participant will negotiate and enter into an agreement with its respective Commercial Bank so as to ensure:

APPENDIX XIII Guidelines on Timely Disclosure of Information

A. Introduction

Public confidence in the integrity of the securities market requires timely disclosure of information concerning the business and affairs of companies listed on the Exchange, thereby placing all participants in the market on an equal footing. All companies whose securities are listed on the Exchange are obliged to comply with the provisions on timely disclosure as provided herewith.

B. Material Information

Material information refers to any information relating to the business affairs of the company which would likely be considered important to a reasonable investor in making an investment decision; material information consists of both material facts and material changes. Companies are required to report all material information affecting the performance of the company to the investing public.

C. Immediate Disclosure

A listed company is required to disclose material information concerning its business and affairs by the next day, upon the information becoming known to management, or in the case of information previously known, and upon it becoming apparent that the information is material.

Disclosure of information to the Exchange must be in electronic format as well as hard copy and be simultaneously published in the daily newspaper. Information received by the Exchange would be disseminated to investors via the securities firms, posted on the Exchange's website, published in the local newspapers via the Exchange's Weekly Bulletin and filed electronically for easy retrieval upon request.

D. Developments to be Disclosed

Shareholders and the investing public must be informed of any development taking place with the listed company, which may affect their investment decisions. Developments must be disclosed at the proposed stage or before an event actually occurs, if the proposal gives rise to material information at that stage.

Announcements are to be made when a decision has been sanctioned by the Board of Directors of the company or by Senior Officers with the expectation of concurrence from the Board of Directors.

Developments that are likely to give rise to material information and require prompt disclosure include, but are not limited to the following:

1. Changes in share ownership that may affect control of the company
2. Changes in corporate structure, such as reorganizations, amalgamation, etc.
3. Take-over bids
4. Major corporate acquisitions or dispositions
5. Change in capital structure
6. Borrowing of a significant amount of funds
7. Public or private sale of additional securities
8. Development of new products and developments affecting the company's resources, technology, products or market
9. Entering into or loss of significant contracts
10. Changes in capital investment plans or corporate objectives
11. Significant changes in management
12. Firm evidence of significant increases or decreases in near-term earning prospects
13. Significant litigation
14. Major labour disputes or disputes with major contractors or suppliers
15. Any other developments relating to the business and affairs of the company that would reasonably be expected to significantly affect the market price or value of any of the company's securities or that would reasonably be expected to have significant influence on a reasonable investor's investment decisions.

Rumours

Unusual market activity is often caused by the presence of rumours. When market activity indicates that trading is being unduly influenced by rumours and speculation, the Exchange will request that a clarifying statement be made by the company via a news release as to whether such rumours and speculation are factual or not.

Listed companies must consult with the management of the Exchange when in doubt as to whether disclosure should be made.

E. Content of Announcements

Investors possess the right to obtain timely and factual information regarding the business affairs of the company.

Announcements of material information must be factual and balanced, neither over-emphasizing favorable news nor de-emphasizing unfavorable news, and one must be disclosed just as promptly and completely as the other. News releases must contain sufficient detail to enable media personnel and investors to appreciate the true substance and importance of the information.

F. Confidentiality

In limited circumstances, disclosure of material information concerning the business affairs of a listed company may be delayed and kept confidential temporarily, where immediate release of the information would be unduly detrimental to the interest of the company.

Instances in which disclosure might be unduly detrimental to the company's interest are as follows:

- i. Release of the information which would prejudice the ability of the company to pursue specific and limited objectives or to complete a transaction or series of transactions that are underway. For example, premature disclosure of the fact that a company intends to purchase a significant asset may increase the cost of the acquisition.
- ii. Disclosure of the information would provide competitors with confidential corporate information that would be of significant benefit to them. Such information may be kept confidential if the company is of the opinion that the detriment to it resulting from disclosure would outweigh the detriment to the market in not having access to the information. A decision to release a new product, or details on the features of a new product, may be withheld for competitive reasons. Such information should not be withheld if it is available to competitors from other sources.
- iii. Disclosure of information concerning the status of ongoing negotiations would prejudice the successful completion of those negotiations. It is unnecessary to make a series of announcements concerning the status of negotiations with another party concerning a particular transaction. If it seems that the situation is going to stabilize within a short period, public disclosure may be delayed until a definitive announcement can be made. Disclosure should be made once "concrete information" is available, such as a final decision to proceed with the transaction or, at a later point in time, finalisation of the terms of the transaction.

Withholding of material information on the basis that disclosure would be unduly detrimental to the company's interests must be infrequent and can only be justified where the potential harm to the company or to investors caused by immediate disclosure may reasonably be considered to outweigh the undesirable consequences of delaying disclosure.

While recognising that there must be trade-off between the legitimate interests of a company in maintaining secrecy and the right of the investing public to disclosure of corporate information the Exchange discourages delaying disclosure for a lengthy period of time since it is unlikely that confidentiality can be maintained beyond the short term.
